Entry: 11/18/08 - I'm starting to approach the engine building phase of the 912 project, have a 356C engine with a mysterious oil leak and a freshly machined 36hp block for my '56 VW oval window project. It's occurred to me that fabricating an engine test stand would really make each of these projects much easier to accomplish and I stashed a worn-out VW tranny case aside for just this purpose.

After all, just leaving it kicking around the shop floor is not the most practical for working on, plus, it tends to get in the way. After a little though, one thing lead to another and I thought, an engine dolly is just a heart beat away from an engine test stand, so why not go that little extra distance to a stand.

THE BEST DAMN ENGINE STAND. THAT MONEY CAN'T BUY . As I stripped the engine of intake, heads, oil pan and water pump... I finally removed enough weight (about 250 #s) to force the stand to let me roll the block over to get the crank out and punch out the pistons... the bare block was just about the max that my old blue stand could endure.
